Reconstructing Personal Narratives before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Counseling in Speech-Language Pathology and Audiology: Reconstructing Personal Narratives:

Counseling in the field of communication disorders is an essential dimension of professional practice, but just what it entails is often a bit of a mystery. Counseling in Speech-Language Pathology and Audiology: Reconstructing Personal Narratives addresses this common concern of students and practitioners by illustrating how to integrate the concept of counseling into clinical practice. Replete with a variety of case studies, clinical guidelines, and actual transcripts of counseling interventions with clients and their families, as well as a practical toolbox of specific counseling methods, Dr. DiLollo and Dr. Neimeyer offer a comprehensive, novel, and empirically informed approach to counseling, applicable to a broad range of speech, language, swallowing, and hearing disorders.

The strength of the text is that the authors have synthesized several approaches to counseling in a way that is not at all confusing or intimidating for students, and in the process they provide a strong message that effective counseling is well within the capability of the SLP. Many authors have said "You should do this," but DiLollo and Neimeyer make a convincing case for " You CAN do this." That's been the crux of my counseling course for years! --Bob Volin, Associate Professor at New York Medical College, School of Health Sciences and Practice, (November 2014) About the Author Anthony DiLollo, PhD, CCC-SLP, is an associate professor of communication sciences and disorders at Wichita State University.
