John Greer Clark, Kristina M. English : Counseling-Infused Audiologic Care (Allyn Bacon Communication Sciences and Disorders) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Counseling-Infused Audiologic Care (Allyn Bacon Communication Sciences and Disorders):

Counseling-Infused Audiologic Care, written by John Greer Clark, PhD and Kristina M. English, PhD, is developed as a straight forward, practical guide to audiological rehabilitation. Founded on evidence-based practice, the authors present counseling principles that lead to an enhanced appreciation for and understanding of the audiologists fundamental role in helping patients to 1) fully appreciate the impact of hearing loss, 2) form their own internal motivation to move forward with rehabilitation, and 3) ultimately attain the personal empowerment requisite to successful execution of treatment recommendations. The text emphasizes the humanistic side of audiology through a personal adjustment counseling approach, along with clear descriptions, and frequent demonstration presented through vignettes of day-to-day application of counseling and hearing rehabilitation principles, this is a balanced, hands-on, practical guide to a patient-centered approach to audiologic treatment. The American Academy of Audiology and the American Board of Audiology allows audiology practitioners to receive continuing education credits by reading Counseling-Infused Audiologic Care and taking a multiple examination assessment after each of five modules (each comprised of several chapters).

From the Back Cover A straightforward, practical guide to audiological rehabilitation, founded on evidence-based practice. Clark and English have written the most applicable text on the market specific to the unique challenges presented when counseling persons with hearing loss. Their direct approach identifies key principles that lead to an enhanced appreciation for and understanding of the audiologists fundamental role in helping patients to 1) fully appreciate the impact of hearing loss, 2) form their own internal motivation to move forward with rehabilitation, and 3) ultimately attain the personal empowerment requisite to successful execution of treatment recommendations. By emphasizing the humanistic side of audiology and a personal adjustment counseling approach, with clear descriptions and frequent demonstration through vignettes of day-to-day application of counseling and hearing rehabilitation principles, this is a balanced, hands-on, practical guide to a patient-centered approach to audiologic treatment.
