It uses the COAST method for writing goals and also goes over SOAP notes. It also covers some OT/ medical abbreviations terminology. The worksheets were helpful to practice and the "cheat sheet" answers at the back are very helpful to ensure you are grasping the concepts and material. I would recommend this book to anyone attending OT school. This version is in a different order than the later edition, but has the same content. Would recommend buying this one. 2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Documentation Information By Zvi Goldenberg This book teaches me the necessary information about writing notes I am getting good use out of this book. It is what I needed. Other books that I got did not teach me as well as this one did. 3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Great By Tiarra Baskerville This book provides entry level therapist with a great foundation on how to write notes. Well worth the buy! This book has been a lifesaver.

One of the most critical skills today's occupational therapists will need to learn and master is documentation. The most successful workbook on the market to educate students and keep professionals sharp is Documentation Manual for Writing SOAP Notes in Occupational Therapy now available in an improved and revised second edition.

"#8230excellent book on writing SOAP notes." mdash; Aimee J. Luebben, EdD, OTR/L, FAOTA, Special Interest Section Quarterly, Volume 11, Number 3, AOTA#8220This manual is an excellent compilation of information needed to teach SOAP note documentation to occupational therapists.#8221 mdash; Al Copolillo, PhD, OTR/L, Occupational Therapy in Health Care#8220(This book) is clearly written and quite thorough. It would be of most benefit to students or those therapists needing to refresh or learn the SOAP method of documentation.#8221 mdash; Pam Harris, Canadian Journal of Occupational Therapy About the Author Sherry Borcharding, MA, OTR/L currently serves as a faculty member at University of Missouri Columbia, a Carnegie Research Extensive University, where she has taught since 1992. She teaches disability awareness, complementary therapy, and a three-semester fieldwork sequence designed to develop critical thinking, clinical reasoning, and documentation skills. She has also taught clinical ethics, frames of reference, psychopathology, loss and disability, long-term care, and wellness. Two of her courses are designated as campus writing courses and one is credentialed for computer and information proficiency. Sherry is frequently invited to present on collaborative learning, peer review, and educational technology. Sherry graduated with honors from Texas Woman's University with a BS in occupational therapy and went on to complete her master's in special education with special faculty commendation at George Peabody College in Nashville, TN. Following her staff positions in rehabilitation, home health, and pediatrics, she assumed a number of management roles, including Chief Occupational Therapist at East Texas Treatment Center, Director of Occupational Therapy at Mid-Missouri Mental Health Center, and Director of Rehabilitation Services at Transitional Housing Agency. She has also planned, designed, and directed occupational therapy programs at Capital Regional Medical Center in Jefferson City, MO and at Charter Behavioral Health Center in Columbia, MO. Besides teaching, Sherry consults on quality assurance issues for local behavioral health centers and has a private practice devoted to complementary and alternative therapies. She is certified in CranioSacral Therapy at the techniques level through Upledger Institute and is attuned as a Reiki master.
